LONG BEACH BUDGET TOTALS FIVE MILLION

[By Associated Press]

LONG BEACH, Aug. 14.—Visions of tax bills based on a full dollar tax rate or even more confronted the city council last night when the city budget for the present year, aggregating the snug sum of $5,500,000, was presented to them by City Manager Charles Windham. The announcement of this tremendous increase in the cost of running the city government came on the eve of the municipal gas bond election which, if adopted, will add another $3,000,000 to the city's bonded indebtedness.

POSTOFFICE SITE STILLHUNT IS CONTINUED HERE

Inspector Hall of the postoffice department, who came down from San Francisco last week to open bids for new quarters for the Glendale postoffice, was in the city yesterday and made a tour of inspection with Postmaster Jackson. It is intimated at postoffice headquarters that he is seeking additional bids in the effort to secure a location that will be central and satisfactory to all interests.

Postmaster Jackson is very favorable to the suggestion that the city purchase the present high school site for a civic center and provide quarters for the main Glendale postoffice there.

JUSTICE CHASE HEARS CANYON FOLKS' DISPUTE

Two criminal cases had hearings before Justice Harry W. Chase of Glendale this morning and both defendants were discharged.

The first case was against Tom Krauski of La Crescenta, charged with assault on Walter Brown. The testimony revealed that Walter Brown and Russell Johnson had been herding 250 goats which got over the line onto land of which Krauski has charge. He told the boys to get the goats off the land. As he had a gun in his hand, Brown and Russell thought he threatened them. As there was no evidence of assault, Krauski was discharged as not guilty.

The other case was brought against Arthur D. Akins of Sunland, on a charge sworn to by W. A. Rittenour who accused Akins of taking a knife in his hand and assaulting the plaintiff, with intent to commit murder. A number of witnesses who overheard the conversation declared that at no time during the conversation did Akins have a knife in his hand. The case was dismissed and the defendant discharged.

KITTLE FINED $50 FOR ASSAULT

M. L. Kittle who, according to Judge Lowe, was arrested several days ago on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, a felony, was fined $50 when he appeared before the Glendale recorder, Monday. When all the evidence was in Judge Lowe decided there was not sufficient to hold Kittle to the superior court, and the complaint, according to Mr. Lowe, was changed to assault, which is misdemeanor. The fine was paid, states Judge Lowe, who said the offense which brought about this case was committed against Robert Parod of this city.

Four persons are known to be dead at Farmington, Utah, north of Salt Lake City, two men and a woman are reported dead at Willard, Utah, and five Boy Scouts are reported drowned in a canyon east of Farmington.

The cloudbursts, preceded by a severe electrical storm, tore down telegraph poles and communication is crippled.

PLANS FORMULATED TO PREVENT STRIKE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (United Press).—Plans have been formulated to prevent suffering in event of a strike of anthracite miners, it was learned today at the White House. The government has taken steps to prepare fuel substitutes which will safeguard against such conditions as prevailed during the fuel shortage last winter.

The anthracite situation is being left entirely in the hands of the coal commission which Mr. Coolidge feels has the authority of congress to deal with it, it was said at the White House.

GLENDALE AVENUE PAVING TO START IN TEN DAYS

Peter Ferry, Contractor, Announces Beginning of Work

Within 10 days the chug chug of the road working machinery will be heard on Glendale avenue, according to an announcement made this morning by Peter L. Ferry, who was awarded the contract for this work several days ago. Mr. Ferry states further that after the work is started it will be rushed to completion.

At this time Mr. Ferry is busily engaged in establishing the plant where the asphalt-macadam to be used on this road will be mixed. This should be ready in time for the starting of the work on schedule. The National Paving company, which will furnish the material that will be used for the wearing coat on this road, is also arranging a plant at this place where all of its material will be mixed.

The first work to be done by Mr. Ferry will be the tearing up of the present pavement and the grading and rolling of the roadbed preparatory to the laying of the macadam. About twenty men will be used in this work along with the necessary road - making machinery.

The east side of Glendale will be paved first, if the present plans of the contractor are carried out. There is a strip of roadway 9 feet in diameter in the center of the street that the Glendale-Montrose company will have to take care of and the plan is to finish the roadway on the east side of this strip the entire length of the improvement work, before the west side of the roadway is touched.

In the paving of this roadway a well worked-out plan will be employed. The asphalt-macadam base of 4 inches will be laid with material from Ferry's mixing plant and as soon as possible after this is placed the National material 1½ inches in thickness will be spread. Mr. Ferry to do all of the work under the supervision of an inspector employed by the National company.

The paving of Glendale avenue should consume, says Mr. Ferry, about 90 days.

TUESDAY CLUB TO PRESENT CANTOR

Residents of Glendale will have the opportunity of attending a musical feast to be given by the Tuesday Afternoon club in its auditorium on Saturday night, September 22, when it will present Henry Cantor of Glendale, member of the De Lara Grand Opera company, in a farewell concert, assisted by Mme. Jadwiga Zebrowska, a prominent Polish dramatic soprano, and also Miss Iva Hanners, lyric soprano, and Harry Nielsen, talented pianist.

Mr. Cantor is leaving shortly on a concert tour of the Orient, lasting about ten months, after which he intends to go to Europe to prepare himself for grand opera under renowned masters in musical Italy. He is the possessor of a beautiful tenor voice of wide range. A host of Glendale friends will be at the concert to give him a royal "bon voyage."

Mme. Jadwiga Zebrowska, who recently made her debut at the South Park auditorium in Los Angeles before a large and enthusiastic audience, scoring a great success, possesses a beautiful mezzo-soprano voice.

Miss Hanners, a lyric soprano, although still in her 'teens, is already a singer of worth-while qualities. She has a beautiful rich and mellow voice. Miss Hanners is a pupil of the famous Polish prima donna soprano, Mme. Felicia Romanowska.

Harry Nielsen, a piano virtuoso, who recently returned from New York after a prolonged study with Percy Grainger, will delight the audience with his splendid playing on the piano.

The program will consist of old classics, opera airs sung in costume, opera duets and modern music.

TULSA, OKLA., IS PLACED UNDER MARTIAL LAW

Governor Declares He Will End Mob Violence in State

(By United Press)

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 14.—Tulsa, oil capital of the southwest, was placed under martial law at 6 a. m. today.

Two companies of crack national guard units took over the enforcement of military law under orders of Governor J. C. Walton, due to failure of local authorities to prosecute masked bands who whipped many victims.

Three hundred militiamen from Oklahoma City, Muskogee, Okmulgee and Tulsa, armed with automatic rifles set up camp within the city limits. Guards paraded the streets. All civilians were ordered indoors between 11 p. m. and 6 a. m.

"The insurrection against civil law," declared by the governor to exist here, has resulted in great numbers of alleged bootleggers and dope peddlers being kidnapped and whipped. Floggings have been weekly events.

The climax was reached when Nathan Hantman was seized on the streets within a block of the police station. He had just been released by police after being questioned regarding sales of liquor and dope. Yelling and screaming, he was taken through the streets to the outskirts of the city, where he was stripped, tied up to the limb of a tree by his arms and flogged until great gashes were cut on his body.

Hantman accused police of having turned him over to his abductors.

The experience was related personally by Hantman at the governor's office.

In promulgating martial law, the governor reiterated his determination to stop floggings, two thousand of which are alleged to have occurred in Oklahoma within a year, even if he has to place the entire state under martial law.

NEW CHANCELLOR OF GERMANY HAS OLD OFFER

Would Abandon Ruhr Resistance in Return for Control

[By Associated Press]

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—Dr. Gustave Stresemann, the new German chancellor, outlined in a statement today the conditions under which Germany is ready to abandon the passive resistance in the Ruhr. The conditions are the complete restoration to Germany of her right of control over the Ruhr, re-establishment of the conditions in the Rhineland vouchsafed by her under the Versailles treaty and the liberation of every German citizen who has been "outraged, evicted or imprisoned."

The statement was made during his inaugural speech to the Reichstag this afternoon. Dr. Stresemann made no mention of evacuation of the unoccupied areas, merely stressing the conditions under which Germany is prepared to enter upon negotiations for the complete restoration of her jurisdiction and the freedom of her citizens.

The chancellor was cordially greeted by the majority of the house, the only jarring note being in the form of boistrious heckling by the communists.

RUBBISH FIRE STARTS GARAGE CONFLAGRATION

A garage belonging to E. A. Estea, 1022 Florence Place, was destroyed and another located on the next lot to the south was damaged by fire at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon. The conflagration started, it is believed, from a rubbish fire in the back yard of the Estea home.

The engine and ladder wagon from Firehouse No. 1 responded and the flames were quickly extinguished.

COOLIDGE APPROVES COST CUT

Lord's work, begun at the instance of President Harding, was wholly sanctioned by Mr. Coolidge.

ANGLO - FRENCH SITUATION IS GROWING TENSE

Feeling on Both Sides of Channel Reported Uneasy

By ED L. KEEN
(General European Manager of the United Press. Copyright, 1923, by the United Press).

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The extreme gravity of the Anglo-French situation, which long had been growing more intense and was brought to a head by the British reparations note is emphasized by a growing solidarity of public opinion in each low level of the franc.

country as well as by the record

Here in England, popular home support for the British government is comparable to those days of August, 1914, when the great war was getting under way. Support for the French now is almost as scarce as it was for the pacifists in those days. Premier Baldwin, of course, has one auvantage not enjoyed by Herbert Asquith in 1914—the cabinet is not divided regarding a policy toward France, whereas at the start of the war, there were several resignations.

British public opinion has been steadily solidifying against France ever since invasion of the Ruhr began. There is also, however, no question but that Premier Poincare has even stronger backing in France.

The British government frankly does not expect the Curzon note, the latest communication to the allies, to effect the slightest change in France's position. Consequently the government has already determined upon the first steps of "separate action" towards Germany, which will be taken shortly after receipt of France's negative reply.

It is understood this "separate action" will include not only an independent note to Germany, but also the summoning of an international conference for the purpose of determining Germany's actual capacity to pay and the best methods of insuring collection.

The question of when British troops shall be withdrawn from the Rhine has not yet been determined but it is inconceivable they would remain after separate action had been initiated.

Further steps probably will not be decided on without the sanction of parliament, which probably will be summoned to a special session. The general European crisis now has two centers. The first is among the presumable victors of the war. Great Britain tired of acting the role of banker, with no securities, while paying her own debts has now practically severed the thread by which she was tied to the entente demanding what she believes to be the only means of stabilizing matters in Europe.

The second center is in Germany, where they have signed on a new crew to take over the ship in the midst of the storm. The government that gets in will find itself confronted with worthless currency, hostilities, riots, plundering and starvation.

Everywhere on the continent, fascisti and radicals are combatting for power, physically and politically. Italy alone has successfully passed the crisis, with the fascisti stemming the tide of communism.

COOLIDGE HOLDS FIRST CABINET MEETING

Anthracite Situation to Come Up for Prompt Discussion

[By Associated Press]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—President Coolidge today presided over his first cabinet meeting, taking his place at the head of the big cabinet table, at whose foot he had sat since the beginning of the Harding administration.

All of those who served as counsellors of President Harding, except Secretaries Mellon and Denby, met with the new chief executive. Mr. Mellon is in Europe and Mr. Denby at his home in Michigan.

Secretary Davis called at the executive offices to pay his respects to his new chief.

Many problems incident to the change in administration leadership and policies needing immediate attention, including the anthracite situation, were understood to be up for discussion when the cabinet members assembled. It was indicated that important problems of policy might result.

OLDEST TEMPLAR TO MARK 97TH BIRTHDAY

Galusha M. Cole to Entertain Group of Contemporaries

[By Associated Press]

PASADENA, Aug. 14.—Tomorrow Galusha M. Cole, believed to be the oldest living Knight Templar, will celebrate his 97th birthday. As his guests he will have sixty-five men and women whose ages range from 80 to 104 years. Three guests whose ages are past the century mark will be present. The centenarians will start arriving at the Cole home at 11 o'clock. An informal luncheon will be held in the garden. Mr. Cole was born at Pomfort, Conn., August 15, 1826. He has been a Knight Templar since 1870. One of his birthday stunts is to walk up Mount Wilson. This year, however, he is deferring the hike until a boy friend sixty years old arrives here next week so he can take him along.

150 MINERS ARE ENTOMBED IN COAL MINE

[By Associated Press]

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 14.—One hundred and fifty miners are trapped as the result of an explosion in a coal mine at Kemmerer, Wyo., according to a report received at the general office of the Oregon Short Line this morning. There were no other details received.

The property is known as the Frontier mine. It is located about one mile from the city limits of Kemmerer.

At 12:30 o'clock this afternoon rescuers were making progress in lower workings.

It will be several hours before anything definite is known as to the fate of the miners.

A runaway trip car which plunged from the rails caused a dust explosion, according to word received from the mine.

France Losing Half Million People Yearly

By JOHN O'BRIEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Aug. 14 (United Press).—If the present rate of depopulation in France continues until 1936, France will be able to place an army of only 3,500,000 men in the field in case of war, while Germany will have 10,000,000 men capable of bearing arms. In other words, France will have an annual recruit "class" of 100,000 men, whereas she has now 258,000. These figures were given by ex-Prefect of Police Lepine at a meeting of the French league.

"In the year 1922." said M. Lepine, "we lost half a million population. One of these days the number of deaths will be actually superior to that of births. For every two male children born in France, Italy has three and Germany five. France is the most extravagant nation in the world. We are paying every year 25,000,000,000 francs (about one and a half billion dollars) for goods which our colonies ought to provide. It costs more to publish 2,000 copies of a book in France than it does to publish 5,000 in England. Germany knows all this. That is why she is playing the waiting game. She knows that very soon she will see France in a position of utter inferiority. That is why she is preparing a formidable aerial fleet to help her get revenge."

GASOLINE CUTS SWEEP MANY STATES

Five Cent Reduction Prevails in Illinois, Iowa and Elsewhere

[By Associated Press]

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Aug. 14.—The gasoline "war" begun by Governor W. H. McMaster of South Dakota "has just begun," the governor said today, and will be continued until gasoline is permanently retailed at a reasonable price."

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Reductions in gasoline price, begun by Governor W. H. McMaster of South Dakota, ordered state highway supply depots to sell gasoline at 16 cents a gallon, assumed a national aspect today when price cuts announced by the Standard Oil company of Indiana and Kentucky and independent producers became effective in widwestern and southern states.

Gasoline today was selling at 15.4 cents in Chicago, 16¼ cents in Omaha and Nebraska, 15.9 cents in Kansas City, 22 cents in Louisville, Ky., 11 cents in Dallas and from 13 to 16 cents in other parts of Texas, with prices in other sections affected by the reductions varying according to freight rates.

In Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota, South Dakota, Missouri and Kansas the cut made by the Standard Oil company was 6.6 cents and that of independents in the same territory was five cents. Retail prices in Kentucky, Florida, Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia were reduced one cent by the Standard Oil company of Kentucky. Gasoline dealers in Nebraska announced a cut of 6¼ cents. The Magnolia company reduced the price in Fort Worth two cents, making a price of eleven cents a gallon.

Governor Victor Donahey of Ohio, in an answer to Governor McMaster of South Dakota, said there were no laws in Ohio under which he could assist in the campaign for price reduction and said it appeared to him a matter for federal, rather than state action. Governor J. A. O. Pruess of Minnesota announced an inquiry into cost of gasoline production. An investigation of short measure in gasoline in Cleveland resulted in five arrests yesterday.

FOUR YEARS OF THE GERMAN REPUBLIC

What German Claims She Has Paid as Reparations Since War

BERLIN, Aug. 14 (United Press).—Germany and Entente disagree on what Germany has paid as reparations since the war. Various estimates have been given out from time to time—the most recent German tabulation is as follows:

Properties in lands ceded under the peace treaty, including such as Saar mines, private and state owned cables, railroad and other bridges, liquidated properties in allied countries, etc.—29,394,000,000 gold marks.

Deliveries from national wealth out of current production such as rolling railway stock, ships, coal, cattle, chemicals, machines, wood, etc—11,113,000,000 gold marks.

Cash payments in foreign currencies, sale of destroyed war materials, rhineland customs, payments under the British recovery act, etc. 2,140,000,000 gold marks.

Other payments such as clearing house payment, costs of occupation, restitution deliveries, warships, etc.—3,371,000,000 gold marks.

Internal payments and losses, war material handed to control commission, costs of liquidation of industrial disarmament, etc.—10,482,000,000 gold marks.

Total, 56,500,000,000 gold marks.

It is further asserted that if the total value of such areas as Alsace-Lorraine, the German colonies, etc., are considered, the sum will run around a total of 100,000,000,000.

However, a study of the foregoing tabulation will show that even Germany admits her cash payments have been very low, the total shown being only 2,140,000,000 gold marks—a little more than a half billion American dollars.

By GUS M. OEHM
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, Aug 14 (United Press).—Germany officially celebrated her Fourth of July Saturday—the fourth anniversary of the adoption of the Weimar constitution which made Germany a republic in fact as well as in name.

Throughout the Reich, celebrations were held, centering in the government-inspired meeting in the assembly hall in the Reichstag which was attended by high government dignitaries and members of foreign diplomatic colony.

Germany has gone through much during her four years of democracy. Beset from within and without, the infant government has maintained itself and gives promise to continue long, despite vicious plottings and propaganda against it.

President Ebert at the helm during the four years of growing pains, money inflations, internal and external quarrels, reparation payments and non-payments and what not has conducted himself in such a manner that even his political enemies admit he has made good—insofar as a German president is permitted to make good.

The German presidency was meant to be a presidency in name only—the chancellor and the cabinet with the assistance of the Reichstag being generally considered the real government. But Ebert, though somewhat reticent, wields a bigger influence behind the scenes than the world—or even Germany—really knows. His four years have been years of confusion and turmoil, but Ebert has led the republic so satisfactorily that when the time came for elections last summer all parties agreed the best thing to do was to keep him in control until the summer of 1925.

Though Ebert stags, his cabinets come and go with the coming and going of different policies. Cuno, in power today, is the business man's chancellor favoring a policy of "signing only what the country can meet in the way of reparations payments. Cuno came into control of German affairs with the avowed purpose of carrying out the final demand of Wirth's cabinet for "bread for the German people first, then reparations."

Ebert had as his first chancellor Phillip Scheidemann, socialist leader, who was in control when the Weimer constitution was drafted, but who refused to sign the Versailles pact making his famous declaration, "the hand signing such a treaty would wither." He was soon forced out of power and was replaced by Bauer, another socialist, under whose leadership the Versailles treaty was signed by Foreign Minister Hermann Mueller. Mueller followed Bauer as head of the cabinet and it fell upon him to liquidate the Kapp putsch. Mueller was followed by Fehrenbach, whose accomplishments were negligible. Fehrenbach gave way to Wirth, who brought forth the "fulfillment policy." Wirth worked hand in hand with Walter Rathenau, foreign minister, and took over that post jointly with the chancellorship when Rathenau was assassinated on June 24, 1922. Wirth was forced to give way to Cuno.

Depreciated Currency

Financially, Germany has seen a steady devaluation of its money during the four years of the republic's duration. From about ten marks to the dollar at the time of the signing of the constitution, the currency has depreciated to over 1,000,000 to the dollar.

Germany's president is a socialist. His party is the strongest in Germany. At first the republic underwent a sparticist movement which promised for a time seriously to menace the government and to send the new republic headlong into Bolshevism. But this movement was put down by the iron hand by Noske, then head of the Reichswehr.

This was followed by the socialist wave which for a time was real and potent. Movements were underway to socialize the mines and to put across other socialized movements, but the wave slowly wore itself out until now industry and capital have the upper hand everywhere. They are fighting today to kill the eight hour day, and to keep wages low. They have nicked the eight hour day by "overtime" provisions, though the eight hour law still stands on the books.

Menaced From Within

Germany is and has been menaced from within by dissenting groups—communists on the one side and monarchists on the other. Every few weeks or months reports are spread that the government is about to be overthrown, wholesale arrests are made and the republic swings along.

Observers who have watched the course of events during these four years declare they may be mistaken, but it is generally believed that the ever-imminent putsches from Left and from Right are largely exaggerated and that though attempts may be made, the same fate will await these that befell the famous endeavor of Kapp—a general strike will tie up the country so tightly that the only resurrection will be a return of the Republic and its leaders.

And this is assuming something which most people don't assume—another semi-successful overthrow of the government.

Two-Year-Old Gets Nickel, Congratulates John D. Rockefeller on His 84th Birthday

Mr. Rockefeller's birthday this year fell on a Sunday and he attended church at Tarrytown, N. Y. In previous years the oil magnate gave away bright new dimes, but this year he cut his largess in half. As the multimillionaire was leaving the church he met a battery of camera men, Robert Irving Hunter, two years old, of Valhalla, N. Y., saved the situation. He fitted right into the picture and as John D. be-

COLORADO COWBOY BAND IS DUE AT THE T. D. & L.

"I can't say too much for the vaudeville bill for Wednesday and Thursday," said A. H. Albright, manager at the T. D. & L. today. "Colonel House and his Colorado Cowboy Band and Orchestra is, perhaps, the most expensive act ever presented in this city. They are being presented here in advance of their engagement at Loew's State, Los Angeles. It's a big act. Herschel Mayall, a featured member of the cast, has been prominent on the screen for a number of years, as a heavy. All the other acts are also good."

Some unusual things are done in motion pictures but not often is an entire town transformed as was done during the production of "Making a Man," a Paramount picture starring Jack Holt which will be on view at the T. D. & L. theatre next Wednesday and Thursday.

In the role of Horace G. Winsby, Mr. Holt is represented as the most wealthy man in San Geronimo, Cal., and he owns practically the entire town. Naturally, San Geronimo is a fictitious name. But it was necessary to take shots of some bustling little California city which could serve as San Geronimo. Burbank, where there is lots of activity, was chosen for the purpose.

Then did the little city of Burbank, ordinarily quite active, assume an even greater appearance of activity. For carpenters of the motion picture company set about putting up signs here and there to appear in the picture. Since Mr. Winsby almost owned the town, it was necessary that several signs bearing his name appear. Therefore, within a few minutes after the arrival of the Paramount company, many new and unfamiliar signs greeted the eyes of the citizens of Burbank. Some of them read: "Winsby Beet-Sugar Factory—Factory No. 2," "Horace G. Winsby—Real Estate and Farm Lands for Sale," "The San Geronimo News—Horace G. Winsby, Publisher," and "Winsby Loan and Savings Association."

An entire day was spent in Burbank by the "Making a Man" unit. Following the completion of the necessary shots for the picture, the carpenters again got busy and within half an hour had removed the foreign signs and restored the original appearance of the city.

ARCHERY EXPERTS GATHERING FOR ANNUAL MEET

[By Associated Press]

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—The forty-third annual tournament of the National Archery Association of the United States will be held beginning today and lasting until Friday, and the most expert bowmen and women from all over the country are expected to compete for some 40 cups and medals. According to Dr. B. L. Rawlins, secretary of the association, at least 75 archers will be on hand at the opening.

Dr. Robert P. Elmer, of Wayne, Pa., who has held the men's championship since 1915, with the exception of one year, will be unable to attend the meeting. Dr. Elmer is also the holder of the distance record for the last meeting, 269 yards and 8 inches. James J. Jiles, the 1921 champion, however, has entered. Women's champion, Miss Dorothy P. Smith, of Newton Center, Mass., also will not be able to compete, but Miss Cynthia M. Wesson, who held the championship for several years previous to 1921, when she lost to Miss Smith, will attend the tournament.

Interest in the ancient sport is steadily growing, despite hardships imposed by the war and its aftermath, according to Dr. Rawlins. The tournaments are becoming more and more popular, and a large number of people are becoming interested in the game that was a profession before the coming of firearms. The war, which cut off American archery enthusiasts from the manufacturers of Europe, who supplied them with the best arrows and bows, made it exceedingly difficult to conduct tourneys. Now, however, there are several American manufacturers who are turning out high grade archery supplies.

The Boy Scouts have done much toward popularizing the sport, according to Dr. Rawlins.

One of the events of the Chicago shoot will be the competition for a trophy presented by Douglas Fairbanks, screen star, whose "Robin Hood" dramatized the story of a great bowman.

In archery today targets are 48 inches in diameter, and the center, or "gold" is 9 5-8 inches in diameter. Around the gold are bands of red, blue, black and white. A gold counts nine points, a red seven, a blue five, a black three and a white one point. Events range from 40 to 100 yards.

The bows generally used are the traditional "six foot yews." Lemon wood, spruce, or any kind of wood that will make a good fishing pole, except bamboo, are used. Arrows for men are 28 inches in length and women's arrows are from 24 to 25 inches long.

A large gallery is expected to watch the contest at Washington Park this year, and owing to the fact that both men's and women's champions will not compete keen rivalry for the championship is expected.

MADE IN GLENDALE PRODUCTS PRIDE OF GOODYER

Just about three years ago Cyrus Goodyer and wife came out to Glendale after a residence of nearly 20 years in Los Angeles, where they built up a fine business in supplying meals to hungry folk.

They started a restaurant and delicatessen at 231 South Central avenue, and in a short time, by the magic of perfect service and marvelous cookery, had attracted a very large trade, which they were assured by appreciative patrons could be greatly expanded if they would but secure larger quarters in which extensive dinner parties could be accommodated. But they preferred to do a smaller business well, so resisted all such importunities, the more easily owing to the fact that for nearly ten years they had been steadily working toward a goal that meant much to them.

All this time, Mr. Goodyer had been experimenting with a salad dressing he felt certain was just what people would want after he had brought it to perfection, which he did about two years ago. He used it in his restaurant service, and in filling his delicatessen orders, and it was universally well received.

So he resolved to sell the store and begin the manufacture of his favorite product. He had his plans all perfected, and when a buyer came along to meet his demands for the restaurant and delicatessen, he closed a deal. Then he began at once to carry out his long-dreamed-of project, enlarging his plans to include not only the tried-and-true salad dressing, but a prepared mustard, a French dressing and a sweet relish, all of which he had experimented on and brought to a state of appetizing perfection. He now has the manufacture of these condiments in full operation in a little factory on the rear of his lot at 216 East Park avenue, where everything is so clean and sweet that the visitor is at once charmed. Already the Goodyer products are in steady demand here in Glendale, and are selling great in Fillmore and Long Beach, the only two outside points yet supplied.

Present indications are that Mr. Goodyer will soon be compelled to build a much larger plant for the manufacture of these much-desired "made-in-Glendale" products.

Mrs. Leroy Bradley of Elk avenue was hostess Monday to the members of the Monday Afternoon Card club. Those present included Mrs. Horace Moore, Mrs. E. W. Cizek, Mrs. Emil Johnson, Mrs. S. H. Waller, Mrs. G. M. Johnson, Mrs. J. B. LaRock, Mrs. Mary E. Griggs and Mrs. Leroy Bradley. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Cizek.

PENDROY'S SALE DRAWS CROWDS TO OPENING

Big Offering of Real Values Gets Monday Shoppers

That Glendalians are learning to trade on Monday was conclusively proved by the crowd waiting in front of Pendroy's store for the doors to open Monday morning, that they might have first choice of the bargains advertised in Saturday's Glendale Press. All the morning they filled the aisles on the main floor and mounted to the second floor as well to get some of the charming late summer dresses in gingham and linene which have just arrived from New York, and other special offerings as well.

Expert needlewomen are not rare among Glendale maids and matrons and Monday morning they seemed to appreciate to the full the opportunities for nifty gowns for adults and children by the remnants which were stacked high on the mid-aisle tables, both cotton and silk. Lingerie materials and outing were selling rapidly, and drapery and curtain stuffs disappearing at a rapid rate. The cretonne remnants were probably grabbed for bags and other uses, for bazaar and Christmas offerings. One of the biggest jams was on the art goods balcony where a sale of stamped goods was in progress and where extra clerks had to be placed. This was also true of the shoe department, where King Tut sandals in a variety of colors were very temptingly displayed.

Mr. Pendroy was circulating around, greeting regular customers and new ones, and smiling his satisfaction in the appreciative crowd that had responded to his invitation to attend the big sale.

On the second floor, Mrs. Pendroy, who has just returned to the store from her trip to the New York markets, was equally busy greeting the patrons who wanted to welcome her and see some of the new things she had brought home.

No Other Cream

Can do what Youth Cream did for me

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I found in France some years ago the finest cold cream in existence. I went there to seek it, talked with scientists, with beauty experts and with beauties. And they all agreed that this cream was supreme.

Since then I have used it every night. Also every morning as a powder base. Used it to foster the skin texture, to protect it against grime and weather.

Now millions wonder at my marvelous complexion. It is envied by girls in their 'teens. Yet I have stood for 40 years in the limelight, and been for 32 years a stage star.

Contains two fruits

By countless requests I am having this cream prepared for all who wish it. I call it my Youth Cream.

It contains both lemon and strawberry. It is, I believe, the only cream which combines these fruit effects.

It also embodies the best that science knows to soften, whiten, feed and smooth the skin.

My friends on the stage employ it. Even in the costliest creams they have found nothing to compare. I have supplied it to famous beauty experts, and they tell me the same about it. My own results confirm them. So I believe that here is a matchless help which millions of women should have. And I shall help them get it.

Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Cream is now supplied by all druggists and toilet counters at 60c per jar. Also my Facial Youth—my famous liquid cleanser. Also my White Youth Clay. Also my Hair Youth, to which I owe my heavy, lustrous hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

Compare my Youth Cream with the cold creams that you know. If the first jar fails to delight you, your dealer will return its price. If it does for you what it does for me, you will ever thank me. Edna Wallace Hopper, business address, Waukesha, Wisc. Adv.

Can You Define Beauty?

"Rather impossible, but if beauty cannot be defined, all women know that it can be refined.

"That is, it can be accentuated or accented by daintiness of care.

"For the flaw of heedlessness of hair, complexion or nails betrays the sort of mind which controls that feminine beauty."

SWEDEN PROPOSES TO LICENSE ALL RADIO RECEIVERS

[By Associated Press]

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 14.—Radiophone sending stations in Sweden are to be owned and supervised by the state, while receiving sets may be installed and operated by virtually any person who goes through the formality of obtaining a license. This is indicated by the request which the Swedish government has just made to the Department of Telegraphs to submit formal application for the right to establish radiophone broadcasting service. The request also invites further proposal of plans and requires the department to consult with the proper military authorities, as well as with the Meteorological Institute.

Although the state is to own and control the radiophone stations, the actual operation is to be a concession to one or more private companies during the first few years, according to the general plans.

Revenues for the necessary expenses of operation are to be obtained by taxing the owners of receiving sets. A portion of these taxes will go to the state and the rest will go to the operating company. Amateurs may manufacture their own receiving sets if they please, and there are no strict limits to the wave lengths that may be used.

Advertising material may not in the immediate future be broadcasted, according to the policy adopted by the Department of Communications. Partisanship in the selection of news broadcasted will not be permitted, and stress is laid on the importance of preventing unfair competition with the press.

LAGUNA ART CLUB TO BE HOST TO GLENDALIANS

Mrs. Ballagh Writes of Entertainment Now Organizing

Mrs. Roy Ballagh of this city, who is now at her beach cottage at Laguna, writes that great preparations are being made by the Laguna art club for the entertainment of the Glendale art club, of which Mrs. Ballagh is president, with afternoon tea and other attentions at the picnic Saturday, August 25, at which the Glendale club members will be guests.

The Laguna club is giving a beautiful Greek pageant, the 24th and 25th, as a benefit for the building fund of the fine art gallery they plan to erect. Glendalians who wish to attend can do so by securing reservations in advance from Mrs. Roy Ballagh, addressing her at Laguna.

L. T. Rowley of this city has charge of transportation arrangements for the Glendale art club which is planning to leave early Saturday morning, the 25th.

It is hoped a large number will respond to the invitation of the Laguna club.

The guests included Wayne Smith, Jr., and mother, Mrs. Wayne Smith, Sr.; Dorothy Jean Ripley and brother, John Scott Ripley, and mother, Mrs. Noble Dipley; Marcia Smith, Jack Smith and mother, Mrs. Seymour Smith; Mary Jane Eaton and mother, Mrs. Jack Eaton; Wallace Bradley, Jr., and mother, Mrs. Wallace Bradley, Sr.; Marcus Peterson, Jr., and mother, Mrs. Marcus Peterson, Sr.; Charles Vincent, Daroll Vincent and mother, Mrs. Newland Vincent; Barbara Ann Bufkin, Allen Bufkin and mother, Mrs. William Bufkin; Norval Lavine and mother, Mrs. Clayton Lavine of Pasadena; Marshall Logan Pearson and mother, Mrs. Marshall Pearson; George Van Hazelen, Jr., and mother, Mrs. George Van Hazelen, Sr.; Jeanne Silverthorne and mother, Mrs. Norton Silverthorne of Pasadena. Ethel Barrymore Suing for Divorce; Separated From Colt for 2 Years

Russell G. Colt, son of the late Col. Samuel P. Colt, head of the United States Rubber company, is not expected to contest an action for divorce begun at Providence, R. I., by his actress wife. It has just been learned that papers were served on him in Rhode Island by prearrangement on April 28. Although no formal suit for separation was ever instituted, announcement was made in March, 1921 that a separation agreement had been entered into by the couple under the terms of which she was to have custody of the three children. Mr. Colt was given the right to see them at frequent intervals.

VARNEYS RECEIVE CONGRATULATIONS ON ANNIVERSARY

Fifty Years Married, They Are Remembered by Many Friends

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Varney of 409 East Wilson avenue, this city, were the recipients on Monday the 13th of many calls from friends who came to congratulate them on the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. They had expected to celebrate the event with a real golden wedding, but owing to the recent illness of Mrs. Varney were obliged to postpone it. They also received many beautiful gifts, flowers and messages from old friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Varney are natives of Canada and were married in Sherbrooke, Province of Quebec. They have been residents of Glendale for more than fifteen years.

IRISH FLAPPERS DO NOT SMOKE, SAYS MAE MARSH

How does an Irish flapper flap? It is more than probable that Mae Marsh, celebrated screen star, who made "Paddy-the-Next-Best-Thing" in London and Ireland, can answer this question so important to all American young womanhood quite as faithfully as the next one. While preparing to portray the title role of "Paddy," which is at the Glendale Theatre closing today, under an Allied Producers and Distributors corporation release, Miss Marsh traveled extensively and made an exhaustive study of the flapper in Erin.

"If there is a difference between the Irish and the American flapper," says Miss Marsh in a recent interview, "it lies in the possible fact that the Irish lass is a little less particular in the matter of dress and more careful in the matter of health.

"The Irish girl wears wool instead of silk stockings; she affects heavy-soled, flat-heeled shoes, and in her dress she brags of homespun material. The net result is an unstarched appearance, as it were, that came to have a strong appeal to me.

"She is even more of an out-of-doors enthusiast than her American sister, and the color in her cheeks and the clearness in her eyes are put thereby sunshine and the soft rains that come to Ireland like a benediction.

"While many English girls smoke feverishly, I saw practically no cigarette smoking among the young women I met in Ireland. Nor are the English girls any more at ease in the drawing room than the Irish of equal social rank.

"Say for the Irish flapper that she is perfectly innocent and void of the fanciful flights that are hailed by one of our song-writers.

"The Irish flapper invariably is blue-eyed, and some of the most beautiful match their blue eyes with a wreath of raven-black hair and a freshness of coloring the like of which one seldom sees in the United States, in spite of the fact that the American girl collectively is the most beautiful of all."

JUSTICE CHASE IS CUPID'S COURT OF THE LAST RESORT

Very popular with young people who have suffered from Cupid's darts is Justice Harry W. Chase who performed two weddings last week, both for Los Angeles residents. In the first ceremony, which took place Thursday, he united Frederick E. Serrell and Henrietta L. De Wald. Mrs. Dallas Malone of Glendale being the official witness.

On Saturday afternoon Margaret H. Goergen of Los Angeles and Wilburn J. Burns were wedded. Mr. Burns is a member of the police force of the Angel City. Witnesses of the marriage were: Miss Evelyn Schlosser of Venice, Louise D. Wood and D. V. Wood of Reseda, and Margaret Chase of Glendale.

BASKET GROCERY IS SELLING OUT

The Basket Grocery at 108 East Broadway must vacate as their lease has been sold, and elsewhere in this issue they are giving some idea of the low prices they will make in closing out this stock. Messrs. Feldman and Gainsberg, the owners, intend to close out as soon as possible and state they will give prices that should move the goods within the next few days.

They have a large stock of groceries, etc., and carry the best lines. Both gentlemen are reluctant to quit, but cannot do otherwise as their lease has been sold.

CHATFIELD BROS. OPEN STUDIO HERE

To Offer Customers Skilled Service in All Lines of Decorating

Realizing the demand for a decorating service of the superior type, where skilled artists are in attendance on all work detailed to them the Glendale Decorating Studio is being opened by Chatfield brothers at 119 West Harvard street. The Chatfield brothers have as a foundation for their work twenty years' experience in similar shops to this one which they are opening here. They will specialize in artistic interior decorating and exterior painting, but are ready to undertake, through skilled artisans, any other type of decorating, furniture refinishing, tinting and color harmonizing. Wherever there is a rare old piece of furniture to be done over, or a special tinting effect desired, artistic and original, the Glendale Decorating Studio can assure them of satisfactory results, and they may feel safe in turning the commission over to the Chatfield brothers.

The public is invited to visit the studio at any time and a phone call will bring an estimator out to look over any work, and present plans and prices.

TAPS FOR PRESIDENT HARDING

Sleep, Harding, sleep! No more shall high ambition beckon!
Its dreams, its wealth, its power; for this has passed away.
Sleep sweetly, long and well! These playthings of life's hour
Are buried with thy loves of yesterday.

Sleep, Harding, sleep! What now are time, or changes?
In thy dreamless sleep, how canst thou know or care?
Sleep on, and on, till God's reveille bids thee waken
To join the gathering hosts of earth and air.

Sleep, Harding, sleep! O'er thy head the bugles softly calling,
Bidding thee sleep in peace in thy cool, grassy bed,
While softly, sweetly sad, its low quivering notes are falling!
(Bugle here sounds "Taps").

A. M. CLARK, 336 W. Windsor Rd.

Editorials by the People

Glendale, California,
August 14, 1923.

To the Editor Glendale Press:

The persistence you are showing in keeping before the public the necessity for action on a civic center and other civic betterments deserves the commendation of all our citizens.

We are suffering from a plethora of organizations, each contending for the "honor" of fathering any proposed civic improvement, but judging from the progress made in carrying out any of those already proposed, they are liable to be lost in antiquity and may yet take a board of antiquarians to assess the "honor" and have it properly credited.

In my humble opinion it matters little who grabs the "honor"; the chief thing is to get the needed improvement. Undoubtedly, we have suffered as a community because of the factional strife, jealousy, envy, and puerile pettiness of organizations that should function merely socially, and otherwise give only an undivided support to civic welfare. Nearly all of the other organizations of the city could profit immensely by the example set by the Tuesday Afternoon club in this respect.

Now for suggestions: The city council should sponsor a mass meeting for the purpose of considering ways and means of acquiring the present high school grounds and buildings for a civic center, city hall and postoffice.

The smaller of the two buildings, the household arts building, could be easily remodelled for a postoffice, and rented to the federal government. There would be additional offices which could be rented to the county planning commission and possibly other public bodies for enough to pay the interest on the bonds required to purchase the entire group.

The bungalows could be sold to the school board for sufficient to help with the cost of remodelling. The other buildings could easily be adapted to meet the requirements of all city departments and make a substantial saving in rentals now paid out for quarters that cannot be accommodated under present cramped conditions at the city hall.

The present city hall could be sold to help liquidate the bonds required for the purchase of the old high school buildings and site.

The money realized from these bonds could be used by the school boards for additional school buildings, including a junior high school on the northwest site.

This action would provide:

1. Adequate facilities for transaction of city business; a city hall
2. Good location and suitable building, when slightly remodeled for postoffice.
3. Splendid civic center site, easily adapted and equipped for community service.
4. A junior high school in the northwest.
5. All may be acquired and maintained at a minimum of expense to the taxpayers.

Lastly this action will take all these controversial questions out of the hands of bitterly contending factions through the operation of one general mass meeting by delegating necessary authority and then getting out of the way of sane, efficient city government and making room for steady growth and development.

Yours faithfully,
J. R. GREY,
124 North Brand boulevard.

Billions of New Capital To be Needed For Farms

[By Associated Press]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13—American agriculture, which has been turning out a capacity product with its physical equipment in a run-down condition, must within the next ten years save up and reinvest in the farm plant from $8,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000 of new capital, according to economists of the department of agriculture, who say this is a conservative estimate.

"For three years farmers have patiently patched, mended, repaired and used makeshifts," an official report says. "Sometime in the coming decade the farm must have about the same replenishment and renewal of productive plant that the railroads are now going through. Before 1933, three-fourths of the farm buildings will require new roofs and new paint. Probably a half-million new houses, barns and auxiliary buildings will have to be built. Half the present mileage of fencing will have to be replaced and much new fence put up. Millions of new tile must be laid. The haying and harvest machinery will have to be replaced almost entirely; tillage machinery in large part; wagons, harnesses, etc., in part. Millions of new automobiles, tractors and trucks must be bought. Millions of tons of new piping, wiring, barn equipment and small tools; millions of new gas engines and stationary power appliances; millions of feet of lumber and tons of cement must all be bought. Millions of tons of fertilizer and lime must be poured into the soil of the east and south to restore pre-war fertility. The country's work horses are old and before 1933 almost a new crop must be raised.

"The men who control great capital resources must realize agriculture's real and unusual need for new capital; and they must realize that farming in this country is still a basic industry—an industry with a future that will pay ample returns on every dollar wisely invested. One of the rural community's very serious problems during the next five or ten years will be debt."

It spoils the effect if a man gets angry during a religious argument.

VANDERBILT BRIDE IN 'ENEMIES OF WOMEN'

Has the marriage of Gloria Morgan and Reginald Claypool Vanderbilt, one of the outstanding social events of recent years, robbed the silent drama of an embryonic motion picture star?

Such is the question that has been mooted over in motion picture as well as society circles since the news leaked out that the same girlish beauty that attracted the wealthy scion of the Vanderbilt family and resulted in his marriage to the daughter of the American Consul-General at Brussels had also put the young and attractive bride in the movies.

Not until the marriage of Gloria did those outside of her immediate circle of friends know that the beautiful young society girl was living the arduous life of a motion picture actress. While other young debutantes were busy with their afternoon teas and other social functions, the former Gloria Morgan was getting acquainted daily with make-up, Kleig lights and the call of "Camera!"

It was with Marion Davies, in "The Young Diana," that Miss Morgan made her screen debut here. Although she appeared in only a small part, here beauty and grace attracted all who appeared in the picture and evoked the admiration of Miss Davies herself, the beautiful star voicing the opinion that Miss Morgan, or Miss Rochelle, the name which she assumed, had a real future in pictures. In fact, the youthful society girl screened so well and showed such capabilities that she was re-engaged by the Cosmopolitan corporation for a small role in "Enemies of Women," a picturization of what many consider to be Vicente Blasco Ibanez's greatest romance. In this picture, which is the offering at the Gateway Theatre, and which features Lionel Barrymore and Alma Rubens, Miss Morgan appears as a nurse in a hospital scene that gives to the picture one of its most striking moments.

MISTLETOE A PARASITE

[By Associated Press]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—If the silent signal of the mistletoe hanging from the chandelier means anything to you next Christmas, remember for an instant that in the southwest it is a commercial pest, and that for 12 years scientists have been studying its depredations and how best to exterminate it.

Mistletoe fastens on the yellow pine tree, checks growth, and finally causes the tree to die. By the Department of Agriculture it is called an "insidious and destructive disease," and its eradication is an important problem.

About the only way to get rid of this parasite is to cut down the tree on which it has fastened. The mistletoe dies with its host, the yellow pine.

NEW ENGLAND FURNITURE COMPANY IN MIDST OF ITS ANNUAL AUGUST SALE

Some Genuine Opportunities to Exercise Individual Taste in Home Furnishing Is Shown in the Big Display of Goods

The New England Furniture company, 231 South Brand, in the midst of its annual August sale, is offering some genuine opportunities to those who have long desired to exercise their individual taste in furnishing up their home, whether their own or rented. This is also a splendid time for those who wish to purchase a new bedroom or dining room set. These are subject to special price cuts along with the rugs and many miscellaneous pieces for living room or den. A cut of from one-third to one-half on rugs makes that part of the sale particularly inviting.

There are many persons taking advantage of the opportunities to get the extra pieces which they have been considering, or to rent the kind of home they have been longing for and fit it out at a saving of from one-third to one-half on the highest quality merchandise.

Combinations of black and white are very much the vogue just now. A parasol of black and white and a large black velvet hat make a charming contrast to this gown of white crepe trimmed with glorified rosettes of white pleated ribbon.

WASHINGTON, August 14.—Women are becoming a larger factor than ever in the running of the government.

When Miss Louise Stanley assumes office as chief of the newly-established bureau of home economics of the Department of Agriculture September 1, there will be more than half a dozen high-salaried women assisting in the activities of the nation. Miss Stanley's work will be to direct service to workers in rural communities and assist in every way possible the task of the nation's home-makers. She comes from the University of Missouri.

SEE YOUR GOAL

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE
Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

Many, many people are like a certain young college instructor of my acquaintance.

A brilliant student, this young man was given a teaching position before he had gained his degree as a doctor of philosophy. Great things were expected of him, and it may be that some day this expectation will be realized.

But thus far he has made no progress whatever, holding today the same minor appointment bestowed on him several years ago.

The reason for his failure to advance, his friends who know him best are agreed, is that he does not take his work seriously enough. He busies himself with many side interests, some of them adding slightly to his income, but all of them requiring the expenditure of energy which should be utilized for his teaching and the studies and researches connected therewith.

This means, of course, that as yet the young instructor has no definite life goal in view, a goal to the attaining of which he eagerly concentrates his powers. Whether he ever will have such a goal is the problem. If he does not he is doomed to mediocrity all his days.

This for reasons long stressed by able exponents of the art of getting on in the world. Thus:

"The first law of success at this day, when so many things are clamoring for attention, is concentration—to bend all the energies to one point, and to go directly to that point, looking neither to the right nor the left.

"A man may have the most dazzling talents, but if they are scattered upon many objects he will accomplish nothing. Strength is like gunpowder—to be effective it needs concentration and aim. Thousands of men have failed in life by dabbling in too many things."

And, to recall the words of another close observer of men and affairs:

"The one prudence in life is concentration, the one evil is dissipation; and it makes no difference whether our dissipations are coarse or fine. Everything is good which drives us home to add one stroke of faithful work."

One friend at least has remonstrated with the energy-dissipating college instructor.

"Why don't you buckle down to your job?" he demanded, "and give up all those other little activities?"

"Why should I?" was the answer he received. "They amuse me, they help me to live comfortably, and they don't infringe on my teaching time."

It is an answer multitudes of young men would similarly make, whatever their occupation. And invariably it would betray a sad inability to grasp the fundamental truth that he who really would succeed must see clearly the goal of his life activities and give himself wholeheartedly to the reaching of that goal.

Always this has been necessary.

It was necessary in antiquity, and was known by the sages of antiquity to be necessary, as witness the Latin maxim, "Respice finem," "Look to the end." It is far more necessary now than it was in antiquity.

And as life becomes more complex and strenuous, increasing the severities of competitive existence, to see one's goal and concentrate thereon will become ever more and more necessary.

Truths in Epigram

Love truth, but pardon error. —Voltaire.

It is not permitted for the most equitable of men to be judge in his own cause.—Pascal.

NATIONAL CONTRASTS

When Germany conquered France a vast sum was exacted. All the war had been waged on French soil. The Germans had experienced no material damage. They set reparations at a figure so great that they deemed payment impossible. They were astonished that payment was so prompt that the obligation had been met in full before the stipulated time. While collection was in progress the Germans kept an armed force in France. The alien officers and men were treated with the utmost courtesy. By the orders of President Thiers the populace, however it may have felt, refrained from every act that could have been construed as an annoyance.

It is worth while just now to make an instant's comparison. In the world war Germany was the aggressor. Its methods were utterly ruthless. In Belgium and France it destroyed all that it could not carry away as loot, even to chopping down orchards, an abominable act barred by the rules of war. The damage it inflicted was beyond estimate. Meanwhile in its own secure territory it kept its factories going, and the cultivation of its acres was uninterrupted. In the end it was beaten. It signed a compact that it never after sought in any measure to respect. Again the total of reparations was set high, but not by France alone. It expressed the judgment of the allies.

Germany has not indicated the most remote intent of paying, or of affecting compromise. It was put upon its honor. The French army did not hold German territory as security. It was only after many months, while Germany was industrially engaged, and the fortunes of individual Germans were soaring to unprecedented heights; when the whole world had realized that Germany had shown no good faith, that it intended to evade payment wholly, that France invaded the Ruhr. The people there had no memory of the time when German troops were in France for similar purpose, and had been treated with consideration. They were unable to see that France, despoiled, ravaged, but finally triumphant, had acquired any rights whatever. They instituted a method of passive resistance. They resorted to sabotage involving murder. They declared that they could not consider entering into negotiations until France had withdrawn. France had seen enough of German policy to realize that these were empty words, and so it stood by its guns. How any self respecting nation could have done otherwise is beyond imagining.

THE PRETENSE OF SEVERITY

Two young highway robbers recently were sent to the penitentiary. In the news columns the caption over the account of the incident was "Young Bandits Get Life Terms." What they had received was a sentence of "from two years to life." Therefore the caption was wrong. That it was wrong is to be regretted, for the facts should have fitted it.

In the light of many precedents these robbers will serve two years (if there is no provision for reduction for good behavior). At the end of two years they will apply for parole, which will be granted without demur. As soon as free again, they will be on the highway, more desperate than ever. They will know that if caught they must go back, and that a second parole, although not impossible, will not be procured with the readiness and ease marking bestowal of the first.

The paroled convict is the most dangerous character with which the police of all cities have to contend. This is more markedly true in California where as a rule the felon is granted liberty on request. Paroled felons from other states have formed a bad habit of coming here to resume their vocations.

There is hesitency in protesting against the parole system, since it does sometimes grant freedom to applicants worthy of it, and these do thereafter lead proper lives and become useful citizens. However, it is not too much to ask that the board having authority occasionally accept the verdict of the court which has declared the accused guilty, and that he merits punishment. A sentence to the penitentiary now is meaningless. To the hardened criminal it is not a deterrent. He can afford to laugh at it, and he does.

SHIELDING THE OFFENDER

In all the great discussion of methods of checking crime, nobody has presumed to minimize the necessity of apprehending and duly punishing offenders. Indeed, it is fundamental that the criminal be taught, by the sole method appealing to his understanding, that he must refrain from acts that disturb society. Circumstances are beginning to show that in this view there is theory, that, sound as it must be recognized, there is lack of desire to see put into practice.

Public attention has been directed to the late chief of police of Los Angeles. Finding that he was in contact with circumstances that paralyzed his authority, he appealed to the public to help him break the ring that hampered him. This ring was nothing less than what is known otherwise as "invisible government." It had dispossessed him of his official rights. The public was eager to sustain him, and just then the mayor dismissed him. Invisible government had triumphed. Unless the members of the ring be exposed and ousted, the present chief, doubtless an able and sincere man, will go the way of his predecessor.

Not long ago two men and women were arrested on serious charges. The remark was made at the time that nothing more would be heard of the matter, since the defendants had money and influence. The arresting officer, however, seems not to have wanted their money nor to have succumbed to their influence. Because he persists in prosecuting them, he himself is being persecuted. Representatives of the law, who by the terms of their oaths should stand by him, devote their energies to harrassing him. He even has reason to fear physical injury. Fellow policemen inform him that "he ought to play the game." By this they mean that he should connive at crime, and extend immunity to the criminal.

These facts are not encouraging to the general public, hopeful as it has been of reform. When a chief of police and a patrolman are penalized for trying to do their duty, and a mayor neglects to protect them, the outlook is not bright.

Nothing well could be more grotesquely ineffective in enlightening Americans as to conditions in Russia than the sending of a Hearst hand-picked delegation to that country. Their reports may be regarded as having been prepared in advance. Certainly there is full knowledge as to what they will try to set forth. Hearst's hired men have set forth simliar stuff many times, the trouble being that it does not stay set. Anyhow, reports inspired by Lenine and Trotzky, even when bearing the O. K. of Hearst, do not count for anything in this country.

The people of this country will bear in mind for a long time the pathetic picture of ex-President Wilson as by a great effort of will, and at the risk of relapse, he appeared in the funeral cortege doing honor to the late President Harding. Opinions about Mr. Wilson differ much, but concerning the fact that, wrong or right, he was a martyr to duty, there can be no dispute.

China seems not to have done so badly in taking bandits into the army. As bandits they had been beyond control. As soldiers, it was a comparatively easy matter to execute them for disobedience of orders. Reports tell of their having been executed by hundreds. It is possible, however, that the reports are unduly optimistic.

One of the Things We Think About

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

They arrested a newspaper reporter in Los Angeles the other day.

Not that this is an epoch making event; reporters have been arrested before. But this time the young man was arrested and charged with obstructing the sidewalk and unlawful assemblage.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

The "assemblage" was composed of a few run-of-the-mine citizens who were expressing their preferences for President in advance of the national conventions.

The thing that makes the case of interest is the vague and befuzzled state of mind in which it leaves the laity, the laity in this case being all citizens who are outside the purlieus of the police force and who are still under the foolish impression that it might be lawful for two or three to stand about in a public park and discuss the high moguls who are training public opinion to associate their names with the presidency without the formality of first securing a police permit.

All of which shows that there are deep and dark ethics in official psychology of which the average citizen has not begun to wot.

In all humility some of us would like to ask why it is unlawful to obstruct the sidewalk in a public park aand lawful and permissible on the busiest streets of a great city and at the busiest hours.

Many a time since the passage of the eighteenth amendment the writer has seen the sidewalks along Broadway blocked so completely that the pedestrians had to walk in the streets. On one such occasion the cause of the jam was a pretty young woman in a show window "demonstrating" household aprons. Two husky policemen stood at the back of the crowd and admired the demonstration—or the demonstrator, but arrested nobody.

The next time the window was occupied by a male person of the matinee idol model, and he was demonstrating dress vests; a few weeks later the B. V. D. lovers stood on the pavement admiring a figure adorned in the latest underwear.

Was the pavement blockaded? Well, rather.

Still no arrests and not one question about the lawfulness of the assembly.

The item that fixed one's attention in all this is when, where and how is a lawful assemblage and which pavements are sacred to pedestrians and which dedicated to crowds?

Foolish questions, no doubt, but when one is thinking foolish thoughts what is one to do but propound foolish questions?

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

THE LETTER OF APPLICATION

Independence, bringing out the fact that you hold a position and that you are interested only in so far as a change might work to your advantage in the way of promotion, is important in a letter of application. However, it is not necessary to put this sentiment into many words. It can be brought out through brevity and directness.

You want a certain position. Say so briefly. Express your confidence in being able to do the work satisfactorily, giving your reasons in a business-like way. State that you will be glad to refer the recipient to those who can speak of your work; or, if you prefer, send a few names and addresses. State facts about yourself—your age, whether or not you are married, how many children you have if you are married, and your health.

Let the prospective employer find out, through an interview with you and through letters he may receive from those who know of your work, the quality of your endeavors in the past and the enthusiasm you have for the work you would like to undertake. Therefore, do not write a long laborious letter filled with matter foreign to the clean-cut purpose of your application and thus prejudice adversely the recipient of your communication before he sees you.

Above all, write in ink a letter than is neat in appearance. Use good English. If you cannot write a neat letter couched in good English, you cannot expect to win an appointment for an interview.

Vocabulary

Sycophancy means tale-bearing; base flattery; fawning; as, "The affronts which his poverty emboldened stupid and low-minded men to offer him would have broken a mean spirit into sycophancy, but made him rule even to ferocity."—Macaulay's Life of Samuel Johnson.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

JAMES W. FOLEY

A long time ago we wrote a Listening Post of a very dear and useful friend.

Who had suffered a great bereavement.

The greatest bereavement that can come to a man perhaps.

The loss of a loving wife, splendid comrade, wise counsellor, loyal helpmate.

* * *

The sorrow was deep.
The pain keen.
The agony bitter.
The loneliness great.
But through it all shone a light.
The light of memory.
And the man said:
"I must do better now."

* * *

That was the fine spirit of courage in time of trial.

That was the great lesson of suffering and sorrow.

Bereavement and loss was made no excuse for failure to do duty.

To bear the load of daily life and endeavor.

But it was made a reason for doing better work.

Only thus could the sacred memory of the dead be honored.

* * *

As a nation of citizens we have suffered loss and bereavement.

And perhaps no single thing could so have bound the American people together as friends and citizens and patriots than the passage of a funeral train bearing the beloved dead across a continent.

* * *

There has been no parallel for it in the history of the country.

A President fallen at the post of duty carried from ocean to ocean through sometimes almost unbroken lines of mourners.

The high and the low.
The great and the humble.
The rich and the poor.
The farmer and the laborer and the housewife and the school child.

All bound with the common sorrow as a band of citizens, resolved to support a great government.

* * *

No address could have done that.

No appeal or prayer or invocation or poem or painting or music.

Not all the art of all the arts could have done it.

But the touch of sorrow made us all human and the humanity of the man moved us all to tears.

And in tears there is salvation.

* * *

And now the hand of the new President has been put to the plow, not to be voluntarily lifted or withheld.

For the great work of government goes on.

There can be no time when there is not a President of the United States.

* * *

We as citizens may take the lesson of the sorrow if we will.

It is not that we shall weep.

Not that we shall be unconsoled and uncomforted.

Not that we shall continue with solemn rites and ceremonies.

But that "WE SHALL DO BETTER NOW."

* * *

That we shall see our duties more clearly.

That we shall form our judgments more humanly.

That we shall labor more tirelessly and patiently.

That we shall resolve more earnestly.

That we shall do our duty more resolutely.

* * *

That we shall have more of kindliness and tolerance.

Less of greed and selfish ambition.

Fear not the struggle.

And accept its sacrifices.

That we shall "do better now."

Songs of the Poets

Maiden Eyes—By Gerald Griffin

You never bade me hope, 'tis true;
I asked you not to swear:
But I looked in those eyes of blue,
And read a promise there.

The vow should bind, with maiden sighs
That maiden lips have spoken:
But that which looks from maiden eyes
Should last of all be broken.

THE THREE ESSENTIALS OF CIVILIZATION

By DR. FRANK CRANE

IN A SPEECH at the ninety-ninth annual commencement of the George Washington university, the British ambassador, Sir Auckland Geddes, told the graduates that he doubted if ever before was the future for as many nations, as many individuals, so closely shrouded in dark clouds pregnant with storm.

"In Europe we know that an age is dying. Here, in the United States, it would be easy to miss the signs of coming change, but I have little doubt that it will come. A realization of the aimlessness of life lived to labor and to die, having achieved nothing but avoidance of starvation and birth of children also doomed to the weary treadmill has seized the minds of millions."

He asserted that the next fifty or sixty years "are going to be the most glorious or the most disastrous in the history of the world."

The way out of world turmoil, he said, must be led by those who keep in view three essentials, which he named as beauty, service and truth.

"Keeping these three in view," he added, "civilization will sail safely. Let one be eclipsed and civilization is in danger. Let two be eclipsed and peril is nigh. Let three be eclipsed and civilization falls. Thus Babylon fell, thus Egypt, thus Rome and all the civilizations of the past fell. So today civilization totters."

These three essentials should be kept in mind: Beauty, Service and Truth.

The British ambassador was not speaking as a sentimentalist, not even as an enthusiast, but as a practical statesman. He had greatness of mind enough to perceive that these spiritual verities are not the peculiar property of the Sunday school, the schoolroom and the poets; they are the granite rocks that underlie any permanence in business or politics.

Service, for instance, needs to be washed clean of the dirt of tradition. Service is not something that belongs to slaves; it is the highest glory of masters. Service does not degrade, it exalts. The President of the United States is not the ruler of his country; he is its chief servant.

The world has always been under the delusion that it is the place of lower intelligence to serve the higher. Exactly the contrary is the truth; the higher the intelligence the more the obligation of service rests upon it.

The same thing is true with nations. The nation that has the will to rule the world, as Germany in 1914, shall be utterly cast down, as Germany in 1919. The nation that has the will to serve the world shall spread and prosper, shall be strong and unconquerable.

Truth is not a mere matter for copy books and Sunday schools. Every great business in the world is planted squarely upon it, and every business that rests upon falsehood is by and by swept away as a house built upon the sand.

Beauty is not the peculiar property of artists and workers in ornament. It is the twin pillar of strength.

All civic corrupation flowers in civic ugliness. Ignorance secretes ugliness as a boil secretes puss.

Beauty is not alone for state buildings, palaces and luxurious hotels; beauty is the crying need of the city streets, of the poor man's house.

Beauty is the unfailing mark of usefulness. It is the test of true democracy. It is the garment of justice. It is the sign manual of God.

BRICKLAYERS DOING WELL

[Brooklyn Standard Union]

Great days for the bricklayers! Listen to this one:

Under the double-shift system, which the city is likely to adopt to get two fine, big school houses in the Bronx finished on time, working hours are to be from 6 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. for one shift and from 2:30 p. m. to 11 p. m. for the other. That makes an eight-hour day for each, subtracting a half hour for refreshments.

But it will be necessary to provide double pay for the hours between 6 and 8 a. m. and between 5 and 11 p. m. That will mean $15 a day for the layers of brick on the early shift and $20.25 a day for the layers of brick on the later shift. Nobody is to work on more than one shift, nor is anyone to hog the extra $5.25 a day by keeping on the afternoon and night trick. Alternating week by week, the laborers in this lucrative vineyard will average a little over $17.50 a day. Architects of the board of education figure the additional cost of this overtime on the two schools at about $450,000.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Long will the people of this nation remember their time of mourning. It will be many a year before the week during which honors were paid a dead President shall pass from the public mind.

HENRY JAMES

At such a time the expression of grief came from full hearts. The words of praise, and the expressions of sorrow were sincere. In every state of the Union, as the late President Harding was laid to rest, heads were bowed in grief genuine and deep.

In the throng were pretenders. There were men who, when the late President was still a central figure in national activities, were free in lampooning him. They sought in every way to show him unfit for the high trust reposed in him. They decried his policies, and defamed the good man who advocated them.

Some of these very men, through papers they control, or that control them, have been most profuse in telling of the blow that has fallen upon the country. Where once they derided, they extol. Where once they had only words of contumely, they drool from honeyed lips the story of worth.

Were they fakers in the old days, or are they faking now? Have their eyes been opened to the truth, or has a guilty conscience impelled them to make amends?

There is to be a police quiz in Los Angeles soon, for brave men who desire to be chief of that city's force. A few of the queries appropriate might be suggested as follows:

If you were chief of the department, and invisible government was issuing the orders, what would you do about it?

If you were chief, and had refused to obey orders of invisible government, and the mayor threw you down, what would you do about it?

What is the estimate you place on the value of a pull?

What are the characteristics of a citizen, male or female, who is entitled to immunity from the operations of the law?

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

MYSELF

One day the youngster discovers the most important, the most delightful, the most interesting personality of his lifetime—Himself. Thereafter everything he does, everything that others do, is tied up to his interest in himself. Which is quite right and as it should be.

However, it happens now and again that a child loves himself so heartily, is enthralled with his own fancy of himself that the natural and healthy self-appreciation becomes an unlovely and unhealthy egotism. Then the child's teachers and parents are likely to discover that they have a rather troublesome problem on their hands.

Especially is this true if the little egotism has no special talent or personal attraction to draw the praise of the audience. His craving for approbation gets the better of his restraints and he does silly things, wild and seemingly outrageous things, to call attention to his existence.

He will invent stories, himself the hero, to envelope his gray personality with rose-hued glory. Every teacher has met many such children. All parents know them. Yet both parents and teachers are irritated by them and attempt to discipline them out of their mood.

Discipline will not cure them, usually. The better way is to provide some way in which they may actually shine. This is not as hard as it sounds. There is always a way out for the limited child if folks will sound his limitations and provide for heightening his personality within them.

Dan was a very strodgy sort of lad, one of those who look as though quarried out of gray granite, but so strong was his craving for leadership that he stood on his hands and walked across the front of the classroom to center the interest upon himself.

The teacher was at her wits end when, in casting the term play, she had the happy inspiration of making him a giant, one who came out of what appeared to be an old gray bolder squatting on the edge of the forest. Never was there such a mighty giant nor so impassive a boulder. The boy really had a strong personality, but of a sort that was difficult to fit in to such a restricted environment as his.

When a child begins showing off, swaggering, bragging, inventing hero stories, instead of being disgusted with him, understand him and set about giving him a chance to flap his wings and try his voice, even though you have the notion he will turn out to be, but a cawing crow. Crows must caw or die, and why should they die?

You think that the parents and teachers have enough to do without studying the mental peculiarities of their children's growth? I should not be surprised to find that true, but that would not excuse me from the plain duty, would it?

We might place a child specialist, a person whose mission in life it would be to understand and provide for "I, Myself," in every school in the country. It would be one way of stopping a great waste of personality, and conserving personalities ought to be the first thought of parents and teachers.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

My grandfather was a heavy-handed anachronism. He really belonged in one of Oliver Cromwell's troops of horse, in which he could pray fervidly and fight consumedly. An ancient of time made him a minister of the gospel. But he remained the Roundhead trooper to the end of his life.

"Any man can learn to hold his temper," he used to tell me. "Not easy, perhaps. But it can be done."

He had a temper that boiled if you held a match under it, but he managed to hold it. He never used rough language that was not entirely scriptural and he never descended to violence. But his manner of holding his temper was sometimes more impressive than violence. On one occasion he had a quarrel with the tenant of his little farm in the hills.

"You'll get out of my blackberry patch!" yowled the tenant. My grandfather reminded him that it had been especially agreed that the blackberries were to be his alone. The tenant yowled louder.

"Get out!" he yelled, "before I lose my temper and hurt you." Whereupon he took a round-arm swing at my grandfather. Whereupon my grandfather seized him, threw him, and sat upon him.

"I would not strike you in anger," he said, seating himself masterfully on the tenant's wishbone. "But you are a victim of your own ungoverned fury. It will benefit you if you learn how to hold your temper."

The tenant tried to cheat once. He said that he had learned how to hold his temper, and then sought to bean the saintly old man with a fence rail. Whereupon my grandfather sat on him until he was convinced that the reformation was permanent.

"I did not get up until my friend knew that his temper would never get away again," said my grandfather, with a marked contradiction of his heavy lower lip.

The funny part is that it never did. The tenant hated my grandfather furiously to the very day of his death, but being a fair man he told the truth.

"He was an old devil," said the tenant. "But, by ginger, he was right. I haven't been really angry since."

PRESS CARRIERS GLOAT OVER LAS TURAS GAME

One of the big features of the Glendale Daily Press picnic on Sunday at Las Turas lake was the ball game played with the baseball team from Troop No. 8, Boy Scouts, of Santa Monica. The game, which was played at 10 o'clock, was featured by home runs smashed out by Percy Winchester, Charles Smith and "Truck Horse" Mahannah. Charles Smith pitched and had splendid control. He struck out five. Umpire Mitchell called the game off in the fifth inning, the score standing at 19 to 2 in favor of Glendale.

DIBBERN RETURNS FROM ELKS' MEET AT ATLANTA

Delegates From Glendale Lodge Talks of East

Arthur Dibbern, jeweler, of 121 North Brand boulevard, returned Saturday night from a six weeks' trip in the east. He left Glendale on July 4 as delegate of Glendale lodge of Elks No. 1289 to the National Elks convention at Atlanta, Georgia, in company with other delegates of Southern California lodges. They were met at the stations en route by reception committees of the Elks lodges, who escorted them through the various cities. Stops were made at San Antonio, Houston, El Paso, Juarez, Mexico, Ner Orleans and other places.

After attending the convention at Atlanta, Mr. Dibbern went to the Elks National Home at Bedford City, Virginia. He states that the Home is located on a gorgeous estate in the hills just outside the city. It is a home for aged Elks and at the present time there are about 400 staying there. From Bedford City Mr. Dibbern next went to Washington, D. C., where he stayed a day and a night visiting points of interest. Other stops were made at Baltimore, Md., Philadelphia and New York City, where he stayed five days. From New York City Mr. Dibbern's trip took him to Chicago, Kansas City and Wichita, where he visited Mrs. Dibbern's parents. He also visited Mrs. Dibbern's brother at Lincoln, Nebraska, going from there to Boone, Iowa, where he resided before coming to California, and then to St. Paul, Minn., and Seattle, Washington, where he visited his brother Owen. The trip home was made by way of San Francisco.

Business conditions in the east seemed to be very good, according to Mr. Dibbern, who states that there is a general feeling of optimism for a prosperous year. The talk about the "great business depression of 1920" was entirely foreign to Mr. Dibbern as it was not experienced in California. Everyone seems to be talking California and making plans for coming here as soon as possible.

OFFICIAL SPANKER FOR FRISCO CHINESE

[By Associated Press]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—"Spanking neatly done" might be the sign on the door of the headquarters of the Chinatown squad at the hall of justice here. Police Corporal Jack Floyd is the official spanker, and rarely a day passes that he does not imprint his trademark on some incorrigible Chinese youth.

Corporal Floyd, who, because of the fierce aspect he assumes on punitive occasions, is also known as the "Mandarin of Chinatown," first entered his present profession about three months ago when a worried Oriental parent confided to him:

"My boy, Sam, he no likee go school. All-time lun away. Take him juv'nile court—no good. No like juv'nile court. Sam jus lun away some more. You spankee him, Mistah Floyd." And Floyd did.

So appreciative was the parent of Floyd's handiwork that he presented him with a canary bird in a picturesque cage. Today a dozen canary birds at the Hall of Justice testify that Floyd's business is expanding.

THE COLLAR BUTTON COMPLEX

He can meet the gravest crisis with a lot of bravery;
In the face of any danger he's as cool as he can be;
No misfortune can alarm him, for he's full of grit and spunk,
And in all his days of action he was never known to flunk.
He is never in a panic when the world seems all gone wrong;
In the face of any trouble he will strike a cheerful song;
Only one thing that I know about will make him lose his head:
When he drops a collar button and it rolls beneath the bed.

He is calm and quite unruffled in the face of any ill;
He has swallowed without murmur many a bad and bitter pill;
He has patience without limit and has courage and to spare;
He will face the loss of thousands and will never turn a hair.
He is calm in his demeanor and his manner never gruff;
He is quiet in his speech and has a way that's never rough;
But there is a time when patience fails and he sees raging red
When he drops a collar button and it rolls beneath the bed.

If his train was in a smash up or his ship was going down,
I believe he would endure it without fret or fuss or frown.
If he missed death by an eyelash in a motor accident,
I think he'd come up smiling when an air of calm content.
He seems to be most placid when all things are at their worst,
In any kind of mix-up he's the one recovers first;
But he's got one nervous complex, as I have already said:
When he drops a collar button and it rolls beneath the bed.

PURSES GETTING BIGGER, SAYS FARRELL

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—When Shelby flopped its historic flop on July 4 by making a world's record bust of the Dempsey-Gibbons heavyweight championship fight, the point was made by some observers that the day of big money fights had passed.

Predictions have been made to the same effect for several years, and while the day may come when spectators will not pay huge sums for ringside seats, and when champions cannot get up to a half million for their end, that day is not here yet.

Instead of facing the prospect of a slump in their business, the big promoters of New York are bothered with the problem of getting a place big enough to hold the crowds that want to see any kind of a good ring attraction.

Anyone who was on the scene at Shelby during the days leading up to the Dempsey-Gibbons fight knows that it was not the stiff prices that scared away the customers.

There were at least 50,000 fans around the northwest and as far east as Chicago and New York who would have bought tickets to the fight if they had been assured from the start that their tickets would be good and they would see a fight if they made the trip.

The absence of customers at the fight was not a protest against high prices or against commercialism, but it was the result of a lack of confidence in the promoters who were trying to put on the show.

Taking some recent examples in New York, it seems certain that as long as the present high tide of interest in boxing prevails, there are thousands and thousands of boxing enthusiasts who will pay big money to see contests staged by a reputable promoter.

Any promoter who can assure prospective buyers that they will get the seat that their ticket calls for, that they will not be manhandled by officious cops and that they will be in no danger of roughnecks, will get a capacity house when he provides a card.
